	· ·	NCOs were in charge of training and instructing the SP personnel. The training included the handling of light infantry weapons, combat practice, and basic drill.
	3.	Prior to early becember 1950, an engineer unit was located in the barracks installation situated on the northwestern perimeter of the city, on the south side of Ul. Piskorzewie, east of the insersection of that street with
		ul. Miska. The installation included one four or five-story barracks building and several subsidiary buildings. Groups of 30 to 40 men of the unit were observed being instructed at bridges and constructing emergency bridges over the river branch running past the southern edge of the installation. The soldiers were issued rations at the barracks installation on ul. Nowy bwiat. They wore khaki uniforms and black collar patches, can banks and pinings.
-		A textile factory had been built on the premises of another barracks installation, which was destroyed during the war. It was located east of the aforementioned installation also on the south side of ul. Piskorzewie.

		caterpillar vehicles with fixed turrets mounting guns, about 2 meters long with muzzle brakes, were stored in two guarded concrete shelters in the northwestern section of the training grounds. The weapons were no longer seen in 1950, but the two shelters were still guarded in the fall of 1950.
	5.	Prior to early December 1950 a KET (Internal Security) agency staffed with soldiers wearing 50 uniforms and dark-red service color, was located in the building on the south corner of ul. Warszawska and ul. Kilinskiego. The agency had an undetermined number of motor vehicles.
〈 1	6.	Prior to mid-February 1951, local residents stated that Polish infantrymen were located in the barracks installation. Young troops on ul. Nowy Swiat wearing visor-type service caps with red bands were occasionally observed but never was the whole unit seen. The recruiting of Figure was located in the wing fronting on ul. Nowy Swiat.
	7.	to early March 1951. Mainly officers, including many senior ones, entered or left the installation by an entrance on ul. Sukiennicza. A battalion or regimental headquarters seemed to be located in the installation. Units of about 120 young soldiers, equipped with light infantry weapons only and a limited number of horse-drawn vehicles, frequently marched out of the installation in the direction of Koscielna lies (P 52/N 94) for practice. SP per-the majority of the troops, namely about 1,000 men, transferred, allegedly to a new barracks installation near Suczypiorno (P 52/N 93). Reconditioning work started in the barracks installation on ul. Lazienna in the fall of 1950 and was not yet terminated in mid-larch 1951. After the fall of 1950, other troops who also wore red service color on their patches and cap bands were located in the installations and trained recruits. The number of the troops was much smaller than that of the unit previously quartered in the installation. Only a limited number of motor vehicles were observed.
